

Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von chelseafc1905 - 02 Jun 2011 20:13

Hier ein Thread, wo wir über die Geschehnisse im Verein sprechen können. Was machen die Spieler?, was macht der Trainer?, Blues News und allgemeine Dinge, die im Tagesgeschäft während der Woche passieren. Des Weiteren dient dieser Thread zur Diskussion in der Sommer- und Winterpause sowie an spielfreien Übergangsphasen. Aspekte (Verletzungen, Kaderneuigkeiten, ...), die mit den Spieltagen an sich zu tun haben, kommen in die jeweiligen Spieltagsthreads.

Viel Spaß dabei.

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von chelseafc1905 - 25 Jun 2012 18:52

John Mikel Obi - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2821430,00.html>

⚠ Warnung: Spoiler! The 2011/12 campaign was a mixed one for John Mikel Obi, but after losing his way in the middle of the season following a lengthy lay-off, he forced his way back into the side, playing arguably the best football of his career at the club.

Off-field issues, with his father briefly abducted, ensured it was a tricky start to the campaign for the Nigerian midfielder, and while he almost scored what would have been the rarest of goals in the opening day draw away at Stoke City, he deserved a great deal of credit simply for putting himself up for selection.

An injury sustained in the 1-1 draw at Tottenham in December saw Mikel sidelined for almost two months, and with Oriol Romeu impressing in the holding role in his absence, he struggled to force his way back into the side.

The departure of Andre Villas-Boas, and subsequent elevation of Roberto Di Matteo saw him regain his place, and after a string of solid displays he once again became a regular.

Di Matteo's favoured 4-2-3-1 formation saw him play alongside another deeper midfielder, more often than not Frank Lampard, and the system allowed him to flourish.

As well as offering the defence protection, the onus was on him to feed the more creative players as early as possible, a role carried out to perfection in the closing stages of the season.

He was involved in the winning goal in the FA Cup Final and having been an unused substitute during the 2008 Champions League Final, Mikel was desperate to be involved in Munich, but after a number of impressive performances his inclusion was never in doubt.

Some Blues supporters argue Mikel had his finest game in a Chelsea shirt against the German side, and it's hard to disagree.

Appearances: 27+10,

Minutes on pitch: 2,681

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Beigl - 27 Jun 2012 16:17

Chelsea News ☐ @chelseanewsonly

Newton to be confirmed as Di Matteo No2 at Chelsea - Eddie Newton is set to be confirmed as Roberto di Matteo's No2 ... 🍌

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Klaus-blues - 27 Jun 2012 17:24

Die Transfermarkt Marktwert veränderung sind da.

Im endeffekt sind fast alle gesungen, aus ramires der hat einen gewaltigen Schritt nach vorne gemacht 🇵🇪

transfermarkt.de/de/fc-chelsea/startseite/verein_631.html

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Beigl - 27 Jun 2012 18:55

Wann gabs das schon mal dass, beim amtierenden CL Sieger fast die gesamte Mannschaft abgewertet wird 🤔

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Diktator - 27 Jun 2012 19:00

Beigl schrieb:

Wann gabs das schon mal dass, beim amtierenden CL Sieger fast die gesamte Mannschaft abgewertet wird 🤔

Du hast das zu Recht vergessen :D

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Beigl - 27 Jun 2012 19:03

Diktator schrieb:

Beigl schrieb:

Wann gabs das schon mal dass, beim amtierenden CL Sieger fast die gesamte Mannschaft abgewertet wird 🤔

Du hast das zu Recht vergessen :D Ich weiß. Trotzdem amüsant, da normalerweise beim CL Sieger jeder Spieler aufgewertet wird. Aber eigentlich ist es ja eh egal. Wer den Pokal hat, hat Recht

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von chelseafc1905 - 28 Jun 2012 07:08

Florent Malouda - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2823568,00.html>

● Warnung: Spoiler! By his own standards, the 2011/12 campaign will probably go down as a disappointing one for Florent Malouda, who ended the previous campaign as the club's top scorer.

He began the season reasonably well and scored a late winner as we came from behind to beat West Bromwich Albion at Stamford Bridge, but his involvement was hampered by the arrival of Juan Mata.

With Andre Villas-Boas favouring a 4-3-3 formation, there was only room in the side for one left-sided attacker, and more often than not it was the Spaniard who was given the nod.

On occasions, the two were used in tandem, and it was Malouda who created the opening goal for Mata in the 4-0 FA Cup win against Portsmouth in January.

However, when Roberto Di Matteo took over from Villas-Boas, his preference for a 4-2-3-1 style of play saw Mata move into a more central role, while Salomon Kalou was preferred to Malouda wide on the left.

But while the Frenchman wasn't starting regularly, he was still involved, and he came off the bench to score the final goal in our 5-1 destruction of Tottenham Hotspur at Wembley in the FA Cup semi-final, while also making a late cameo in the Final of the same competition.

He started away at Arsenal and Liverpool towards the end of the season, and he was also expected to start in the Champions League Final, only to come on as a second half substitute, replacing Ryan Bertrand.

Appearances: 21+22

Goals: 3

Assists: 9

Minutes on pitch: 1,163

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Chelsea-Champ - 28 Jun 2012 13:25

Happy Birthday Kevin de Bruyne zum 21. 🎉

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von chelseafc1905 - 28 Jun 2012 18:46

Raul Meireles - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2825460,00.html>

⚠️ Warnung: Spoiler! Raul Meireles made the switch to Stamford Bridge from Liverpool last August and enjoyed a fairly solid first season at the club.

The Portuguese midfielder made his debut in the 2-1 win at Sunderland and made an instant impact, supplying a brilliant pass for Daniel Sturridge to score the decisive goal.

He scored his first goal for the club in the 5-0 Champions League win against Genk, opening the scoring with a fantastic long-range strike, and went on to score six times, including memorable goals against Birmingham in Roberto Di Matteo's first game in charge and Benfica in the Champions League quarter-finals.

His ability to play a wide range of roles ensured Meireles was an important member of the squad, first under Andre Villas-Boas and later Roberto Di Matteo.

Deployed in the holding role in his first few appearances for the club, he then went on to play both on the left and right of a midfield trio, while in the home game against Barcelona he was given the specific task of playing slightly further forward but with the instruction to tuck inside when we didn't have possession.

After picking up a booking in the Camp Nou against Barcelona, Meireles missed the Champions League Final through suspension, but having already picked up an FA Cup winners' medal a few weeks prior, our European triumph ensured he ended the season with two more medals to his collection.

Appearances: 37+8

Goals: 6

Assists: 7

Minutes on pitch: 3,327

Jose Bosingwa - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2825460,00.html>

⚠ Warnung: Spoiler! Jose Bosingwa's fourth season at Stamford Bridge is one that the player will remember fondly, and he will go down as one of the players who made history for the club after the Munich triumph.

He started the season as first-choice right-back under the guidance of Andre Villas-Boas and scored a stunning opening goal in the 3-1 win over Norwich City at Stamford Bridge, but after a fairly solid opening to the campaign, he was sent off at Queens Park Rangers in what was a fiery encounter.

With Bosingwa suspended, Branislav Ivanovic came into the side and impressed, keeping his place in the team and, for a while at least, the Portuguese had to be content with only sparing appearances, more often than not from the bench.

Late in January, he forced a last-gasp own-goal which salvaged a point in the 1-1 draw at Swansea, but his best performance of the season came in the Champions League clash at the Camp Nou, when he played alongside Ivanovic at centre-back and somehow managed to repel a constant wave of pressure from the Spaniards.

With a tough schedule in the closing few weeks of the campaign, and injuries to both Gary Cahill and David Luiz, Bosingwa was a regular starter, playing the full 90 minutes in both the Champions League and FA Cup Finals, and while he struggled at times to eradicate mistakes in his play, he made a significant contribution in the most memorable night in the club's history on 19 May in Germany.

Appearances: 36+7

Goals: 1

Assists: 4

Minutes on pitch: 3,456

Romelu Lukaku - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2825870,00.html>

⚠ Warnung: Spoiler! Having signed from Belgian side Anderlecht last summer, Romelu Lukaku will have been aware that, with both Didier Drogba and Fernando Torres ahead of him in the pecking order, his first season at the club was always going to be a learning curve.

He made his debut as a substitute in the 3-1 win against Norwich at Stamford Bridge and went close to scoring with his first touch, before making another late appearance in the 3-1 defeat at Manchester United.

Early in the season, however, it was the Carling Cup which provided him with the platform to showcase his abilities. His first full 90 minutes for the club came in the win against Fulham, while he also featured in later rounds against both Everton and Liverpool.

In between his fleeting first team appearances, the 18-year-old turned out regularly for the reserves, and finished that particular campaign with a tally of seven goals in nine games, including a brace in a 4-2 win away to Newcastle's second string.

Back with the first team, Lukaku came on as a substitute in the 4-1 defeat at Liverpool, before starting a league game for the first team on the final day of the season against Blackburn Rovers, supplying the cross from which John Terry opened the scoring in our 2-1 win.

Appearances: 4+8

Assists: 1

Minutes on pitch: 461

Paulo Ferreira - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2825870,00.html>

⚠ Warnung: Spoiler! In what was his eighth season at the club, Paulo Ferreira proved just how important it is to have squad players who can be relied upon when necessary.

After featuring in only Carling Cup and Champions League group games earlier in the campaign, he was thrust into the action midway through the first half of the 1-1 draw at White Hart Lane in December and turned in a solid display marking the in-form Gareth Bale.

He featured in the 3-1 home defeat by Aston Villa just over a week later but wasn't used again until he was handed a surprise and rare start in the Champions League game away in Benfica. Ferreira used his maturity and big-game experience to help the Blues turn in an all-round impressive defensive display in his homeland en route to a 1-0 victory.

As the season drew to a close, he also started in the 6-1 victory over Queens Park Rangers and the 4-1 defeat at Liverpool.

Appearances: 5+4

Minutes on pitch: 650

Salomon Kalou - Saison 2011/12

<http://www.chelseafc.com/page/LatestNews...0268~2827467,00.html>

● Warnung: Spoiler! The 2011/12 campaign was a mixed one for Salomon Kalou, and for long periods the player would have struggled to imagine it ending in the manner it did.

The Ivorian striker started the opening game away at Stoke and missed arguably the best chance of the game, before being withdrawn early on a week later against West Bromwich Albion at home.

It was from that point onwards matters started to take a turn for the worse for him, and for much of the first half of the season Kalou barely featured.

On the rare occasions when he was called upon, as always, he gave everything. As a late substitute up at Newcastle in December, he entered with the Blues leading 1-0 and scored the crucial second goal, before teeing up Daniel Sturridge for the third, but it still wasn't enough to earn him a regular starting spot.

However when Andre Villas-Boas was replaced by Roberto Di Matteo, the season began to take a positive turn for Kalou. Restored to the side almost instantly, his confidence grew with every appearance, and he repaid the Italian with the winning goal away to Benfica in the Champions League quarter-final.

He was a near ever-present as the games came thick and fast, and started both the FA Cup and Champions League Finals, completing the win at Wembley and playing 84 minutes in Germany.

Appearances: 16+10

Goals: 5

Assists: 4

Minutes on pitch: 1,526

=====

Aw: Chelsea FC Daily Talk 11/12

Geschrieben von Mrlronie - 02 Jul 2012 19:48

Torres about last night:

The first person to call me last night and congratulate me was Didier Drogba, we'll certainly miss him at Stamford Bridge. He said he has left something for me in my locker, and I am waiting to get back and see what is it.

=====